I have been honored to serve as the Head Golf Professional at Oakmont Country Club for the past nine years. Before stepping into this role, I gained valuable experience at Falmouth Country Club in Maine, Seminole Golf Club in Florida, and Oakmont Country Club in Pittsburgh, PA.

My love for the game began in high school, and from that moment on, I knew golf would be my career. This passion led me to Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, where I enrolled in the Professional Golf Management program and competed on the golf team. It was during my internships at Falmouth and Oakmont that I set my sights on becoming a Head Professional and earning my PGA Professional status.

As a Head Professional, my mission has always been to uphold the highest standards of excellence—for our membership, guests, and staff. Every year, Oakmont presents new challenges and opportunities, from renovating the golf shop to hosting major championships like the U.S. Open and U.S. Amateur, course restorations, and an extensive range project. The club's evolution demands constant growth, and I embrace that same mindset in my role as a PGA Professional.

One of my greatest passions is mentoring and developing future leaders in the industry. At Oakmont, we cultivate talent from the ground up, starting with our interns and guiding them into full-time roles in the golf shop. The fast-paced, high-standard environment here forces young professionals to adapt quickly, preparing them for career success. My team and I take immense pride in fostering a culture of learning, professionalism, and innovation.

Beyond my career, golf is also a part of my family life. My wife, Katie, and I love sharing the game with our three-year-old daughter, Clara.

A key focus in recent years has been refining our approach to the rules of golf and enhancing the Oakmont experience. This process has pushed us to think creatively and always prioritize what's best for the club and the members.

I am deeply grateful for the opportunity at Oakmont and remain committed to delivering an exceptional experience every single day. Golf is more than a game—it's a lifelong pursuit of excellence, and I'm honored to share that journey with our community and my family.
