I am currently the Head Golf Professional at Bridgeport Country Club (where I grew up playing) and am entering my 9th year at the club. I have a broad background within the industry, including working in high-volume public, private, and resort operations. Most recently, I held positions at Pete Dye Golf Club and Streamsong Resort prior to my time at BCC.

Golf has played a massive role in my life, and I always knew growing up that I wanted to have a career in this industry. After playing golf at West Virginia Wesleyan College, I moved to Louisville, KY, to start my career and journey towards becoming a PGA Professional.

Throughout most of my career, I have specialized in junior golf development and instruction. In my current position, however, I wear many hats, much like many PGA Professionals. During my time at Bridgeport, we have had substantial growth in our junior/instructional program, increased participation in member and outing events, and continual growth in golf shop sales. I attribute this to the many programs put in place to promote more activity at our club and member involvement.

I am a forward thinker who excels in creating and growing programs that benefit the operation. One of my biggest strengths is my attention to detail, which helps me create memorable and unique experiences for my members and customers. I look forward to sharing my experiences and knowledge with my fellow PGA Professionals to aid in their professional growth in the golf industry.
